Celebrating Phlebotomists Recognition Week at WUTH

This week is Phlebotomists Recognition Week (9th to 13th February 2026) and we are proud to celebrate the incredible contribution of our Phlebotomy team at WUTH.

In 2025 alone, the team supported more than 250,000 patients, caring for people of all ages from children to adults. Their work spans services across both Arrowe Park Hospital and Clatterbridge Hospital, providing essential support in a wide range of clinical settings.

From routine blood tests to urgent diagnostic samples, the team demonstrate exceptional skill, precision and professionalism. Every blood draw is carried out with compassion and care, helping patients feel supported during what can often be an anxious moment.

Behind every diagnosis, there is a phlebotomist playing a critical role in patient care. Thank you to our wonderful Phlebotomy team for being the foundation of accurate diagnosis and for the vital contribution you make to outstanding care across the Trust.
