New pager system to launch on Wednesday 25th March

On Wednesday 25th March, the Trust will launch its new pager system. This is an important step forward in improving our communications infrastructure and enhancing the reliability of critical messaging across our sites.

There will be a period of downtime during the transition. The exact timing will be confirmed and the interruption will be kept to an absolute minimum to support a smooth and successful changeover.

Digital Healthcare Technology and Switchboard have already been in contact with the main holders of pagers, and new devices will be issued to these representatives ahead of the go live date.

A process will also be in place to ensure anyone who has not been included in the wider rollout programme can collect a new pager from Switchboard at go live.

Further details on the switch over process will be shared closer to the launch date.

Thank you for your cooperation and support.
